Our Expertise

Leading Instructional Design & Development

We can partner with you at the strategy level, working to align the training department's goals with the broader business objectives. When you have a specific performance need, we can help you analyze, define, and implement the right formula for success. At a program or project level, we can lead or support efforts from needs analysis and curriculum design, to tools and templates, to a full suite of evaluation and learning measurement services. We're ready to offer a fresh perspective, a helping hand when your resources are tight, and targeted expertise to round out your team's capabilities.

eLearning

We turn educational and corporate training content into custom interactive mobile e-learning applications with unique social and gamification features.

interactive Media

Produce and transform materials into interactive multimedia scene such as Company Profile Interactive, KIOSK Touch-Screen, presentation and a lot more.

web Engineering

Every web design project is created from scratch using visual appeal, cross-browser compatibility, and search engine friendliness.

system Application

A full-cycle application development from requirements elicitation to product design and development, quality assurance testing, deployment as well as further maintenance.

server Management

Server management involves all the monitoring and maintenance required for servers to operate reliably and at optimal performance levels. This includes managing hardware, software, security, and backups to keep the IT environment operational and efficient.

CONTENT DEVELOPMENT

Development and delivery of interactive multimedia self-study courses for a variety of purposes.

Our team of professionals is ready to respond to your needs for custom built in courseware or even entire curricula. Our development team can also help you with tailoring other instructional content to meet the particular needs of your organisation.

The courses we have produced can be delivered to learners in several ways: over a Local Area Network, intranet, the Internet, or on CD-ROM.

We have the expertise and tools you need to deliver just in time training whether you want to develop your own content from the beginning or engage us to develop the content.

Our focus is on education and training materials as well as associated management, delivery and assessment software. Our aim is to offer affordable, high quality, interactive multimedia-based education and skills training to meet local and international demand.
